COLOR ANALYSIS

Waking up to the fair aroma of chocolate in the kitchen is a part of life that I have always dreamt of living in the future. I saw myself as a literal workaholic. My days were supposed to be filled with a bright palette of colorful hues. However, these colors were dimmed down by increasing workload and life pressures.

This photograph captured by Polish photographer Adam Bartoszewicz does two particular things: it brings me back to the peaceful days when I was a carefree child and career was a far-fetched thought; it gave me light and hope about a future scenario rife with serenity. Maybe I am trying to escape from the reality. But, the setting and lighting, for one moment, provided my soul with a good treat amidst pandemic and finals season. They were earthy, warm, and vivid tones, to be more detailed. My attraction to these colors can be due to my favorite season summer and my bubbly character.
